Who was Nathanael in the Bible?

Nathanael, whose name is spelled Nathaniel in popular modern usage, was one of the disciples called by Jesus (John 1:43). Nathanael was from Cana in Galilee (John 21:2) and was brought to Jesus by his friend, Philip, who also became one of Jesus' disciples. Nathanael was one of the first to express belief in Jesus Christ as the Son of God (John 1:49). His name means "God has given" in Hebrew. Interestingly, Nathanael is only mentioned in the Gospel of John; the other three gospels identify him as "Bartholomew."

The call of Philip and Nathanael to discipleship is recorded in the first chapter of John, beginning in verse 43. Jesus went to Galilee and found Philip first, who then went to Nathanael, his friend. Philip told Nathanael that he had found "the one Moses wrote about in the Law, and about whom the prophets also wrote—Jesus of Nazareth, the son of Joseph" (John 1:45). Nathanael was sceptical and said, "Nazareth! Can anything good come from there?" (Verse 46). This scepticism was understandable; at that time Nazareth was an obscure little hill town, remote and of no consequence. It was not sophisticated or glamorous, quite the opposite—it was not a place that anyone expected the Messiah to come from. Despite his scepticism, Nathanael followed Philip to meet Jesus. When the Lord saw Nathanael coming toward Him, He said, "Here truly is an Israelite in whom there is no deceit" (verse 47). Nathanael accepted this description as true and wondered how Jesus knew his character, having never met him before. Jesus explained: "I saw you while you were still under the fig tree before Philip called you" (verse 48). Nathanael then immediately recognized Jesus as the Christ, calling him the "Son of God" and the "king of Israel" (verse 49).
