MOMENTS OF KINDNESS AND BEAUTY

In a world that continues to seemingly tear itself apart through war, violence, corruption, greed and so forth it's easy to forget those moments of beauty and kindness and joy we see in our world. We see the smile and hear the laugh of a baby or young child. We see the kindness of one person helping another in need with no strings attached. We see people giving to good causes freely without expectation of reward and we see people share, live, laugh and dream.

We forget too easily the beauty of the world around us, of birds singing in the morning, of a radiant sunrise or sunset. At this moment in the early morning before the sun rises one can see the four brightest planets shine across the sky. We can enjoy the still blue ocean or enjoy the sound of rain falling on our roof. We enjoy the company of pets, the flowering of plants and enjoying choice fruit.

School holidays have started, and many will travel around the state, interstate or even overseas. There continues to be ample opportunity in this 'lucky' country to enjoy our delightful world and enjoy the company of family and friends. The teacher of Ecclesiastes sporadically calls the reader to stop and enjoy what they have, their wealth and possessions, their family and life. We don't know what tomorrow will bring for good or ill, and so we enjoy, we esteem and we value the moment as well as what was, mindful of what might be.

Life is a precious gift, and our life together is also a precious gift. We forget these things too easily when overwhelmed by loneliness, fear, doubt, or despair. In a broken and struggling world let us cultivate generosity, friendship, and fellowship in thanks for the gifts our good God gives us.
